Death of Young Woman a Shock to Many.

As word drifted along Saturday afternoon of the passing away of Mrs. Frida Olson-Pringle, many were grieved by the sorrowful news of the young woman's untimely demise. have presented but one candidate for each office and in many instances have no candidates.

The gubernatorial situation is demanding the big attention of state voters. Eight candidates and all capable men—Earle, Glasgow, Grosbeck, Hamilton, Leland, Martindale, Mott, Campbell and Dickinson. Hamilton, who is the author of anti-parochial school idea seems in bad and can expect but little support. Campbell has been making a lot of noise in the state, and Mott asks support because of his special capabilities as a big business man and successful manager with an A1 record of efficiency as mayor of Flint during the time it seemed to be growing beyond all efforts to keep the city affairs up to the population. We could tell the people about each of the men but no doubt our readers are pretty well informed about them already.

For lieutenant governor we have Scully and Reed. Mr. Scully has been in Grayling a number of times with the State fish commission and with the good roads boosters and has a lot of friends here who no doubt will vote for him.

For Congress, Currie and Woodruff. Take your choice. There is a radical difference between the men. Both have advertisements in this issue of the Avalanche. Study what they have to say and sift the truth from the "bunk". Make up your mind which is the man best fitted to represent the 10th district in Congress.

For state senator we have five good republicans—Schmidt, Bicknell, Perry, McRae and Roxburgh. Perry was a candidate four years ago and came within an ace of winning. He is sure to be a strong contender this time and looks well for a win.

Farrier for representative and Guy E. Smith for circuit judge have no opponents and will be nominated. There are two contests among the county offices. George Sorenson and John J. Niederer for the office of judge of probate. Both men are well known and need no comments. Same with the candidates for sheriff—Ernest P. Richardson and William H. Cody.

There are no contests on the democrat ticket, either in the state, districts or county.

Besides the Republican and Democrat tickets in the field there will be a Prohibition, Socialist, Socialist Labor, and Farm-Labor party tickets. These each present a candidate for governor and lieutenant governor, and the Farm Labor ticket has in addition a candidate for congress.

Primary election day will be next Tuesday, August 31st. The polls in Grayling will be open at 8:00 o'clock in the morning and close at 6:00 o'clock in the afternoon. All registered voters, both men and women, are entitled to vote in this election. Let us take an active interest in selecting our candidates and have a hand in making the laws of our country. One vote don't count for much but in close contest may decide the winner.

Everybody vote and ask your neighbors and friends to do so. It is good Americanism.

CAMP WAGNER NO. 33 N. L. V. S. INSTALLED OFFICERS AND INITIATED 40 MEMBERS.

Camp Wagner No. 33 National League of Veterans and sons held a meeting last Monday night at which time the following national officers from Saginaw were present to install the officers, and initiate the class of forty members, who have been secured. The officers were General, Fred Gill; brigadier general, G. C. Converse; and adjutant general, E. B. Metcalf.

The officers who were duly installed on this evening were as follows: Col.—Edward Becker. Lt. Col.—Frank Severn. Major—Geo. Kirkendall. Chaplain—William Goodhall. Quartermaster—J. A. Holliday. Adjutant—John Matthiesen. Officer of the Day—Herbert Parker. Officer of the Guard—Glen Owens. Sentinel—Scott Willey. Picket—Richard Lavallo.

visit with relatives. After two weeks care at home she was removed to Mercy hospital for treatment. She seemed to be improving and was so much improved that she with her husband went to Lake Margrethe for a ten days' recreation. There she grew worse and so was again removed to her home. From that time on she gradually failed each day until her death.

When but a mere child the deceased was left fatherless, her father being burned to death in a forest fire in some camps near Salt Lake City, where she was born, Dec. 18, 1893. On June 19, 1912 her mother, who was the wife of Lars P. Olson passed away and she had the care of her two young step-brothers, Paul and Oscar Olson, and a mother's duty fell to her, which she fulfilled with utmost care. She was a graduate of the Grayling High School of the Class of 1912, one of the largest that ever graduated from our schools. Her desire had been after leaving school to learn the art of dressmaking. During the summer of 1913 she attended a school of this kind in Saginaw for several months and after her course was completed was able to hold positions in some of the most exclusive dressmaking shops in Detroit.

During the year 1917, she met and married Guy Gould Pringle, who was at that time the local American express agent of this place. The marriage took place at St. Ignace October 2nd, 1917 and since then the happy couple had made their home in Grayling, except during the winter months of last year, which they spent in Detroit. They have enjoyed the comforts of a pleasant and cozy little home, where Mrs. Pringle fulfilled her duties as a thrifty housewife and a faithful and loving companion. She was a very charitable person, always ready to lend a helping hand especially to the ill and needy. Their home was blessed by the birth of a little son, but he died in infancy. Her husband had watched over her almost constantly during her illness, doing all in his power to give her every comfort. He is grief-stricken over his loss, and indeed has the sincere sympathy of hosts of friends.

Besides her husband the young woman is mourned by an only brother, Adolph Olson of Detroit, her stepfather, Lars P. Olson, Detroit, step-brothers, Paul Olson of Port Worth, Texas, and Oscar Olson who has been making his home in Grayling with his sister for the past two years.

Many friends attended the funeral services of the young woman. They were held from the Danish Lutheran church, Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Rev. A. E. Sorenson conducted the services and was assisted by the choir, who nicely sang several hymns. There was a large profusion of flowers, which showed the high esteem in which the deceased was held by her friends. The remains were laid to rest beside those of her mother in Elmwood cemetery. Those from out-of-the-city, who came to be in attendance at the funeral were, Mr. Adolph Olson of Detroit, Mrs. Frank Barnett and children, Mrs. Pringle, Misses Ethel and Audrey and Mr. Rollo Pringle of Bay City.

School Has Hopeful Outlook for a Big Year.

Foremost in the minds of many of the children of Grayling is the fast approaching school time. And besides there are to be many new teachers this year, more than is common. This too makes the young mind anxious to know who will be their teacher. Thru the courtesy of Superintendent B. E. Smith, the Avalanche is privileged to publish the names of the teachers, where they are from and the grade or department in which they will serve. They are as follows:

Supt. B. E. Smith, U. of M., South Haven.

Helen Giegling, Manistee, kindergarten.
Efforts are being made to secure a physical director and it is expected that by the time school begins, which will be on Tuesday, September 7, this department will be provided with a teacher.

Supt. Smith is working hard these days in preparation for the coming year and has already prepared a new outline of study. This will be printed in pamphlet form and probably be ready for distribution the latter part of next week. Together with the outline the pamphlet will contain many suggestions of value to parents and pupils, and give the reader some idea of the school plans for the coming year. Be on the lookout for it. This paper will let the public know next week when they will be ready and where to obtain them.

AN EXPLANATION.

It seems to be understood by some of the members of the Hospital aid that the proceeds from the Charity ball should have amounted to a great deal more than the final reports show. If these people would just stop to consider that, at $1.00 a ticket, each ticket admitting two people and refreshments at 5c an item, and a limited number of the people to assume the responsibility, it takes a great deal more time and people than can be roughly guessed at by a glance at the crowd in the ball room from a by-stander. It is a great regret to those who worked so hard for the success of the party and were so satisfied in turning over $203 to the hospital, after expenses were paid, that the same opinion was not held by all the members of the aid. Signed: Eva C. Lewis, President.

GRAYLING, THURSDAY, AUG. 26.

ALMOST THE FIRST WORDS of Roy Woodruff when he addressed the voters here Monday night, after greeting the crowd and thanking them for coming out to hear him, was to take a stab at his opponent, Gilbert A. Currie. And that seemed to be his key note and he kept it up throughout most of his utterances. This is largely in contrast to the talk given here early in the season by Mr. Currie.

Mr. Currie was criticised for asking the miners to return to their work and await the judgment of the labor tribunal. Winter was setting in and the coal miners had gone upon a strike in defiance of law and refused to arbitrate their demands. Factories were closing, and thousands of laboring men were thrown out of employment. Cold, hunger, and even death stalked everywhere, when a Federal judge saved the situation. Notwithstanding this court decision, Gompers and the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor openly defied the law and pledged their resources to overcome the Government and its courts in their effort to end the strike. "My sense of public duty," said Mr. Currie, "would not permit me to remain silent under such circumstances which threatened the very existence of government."

Mr. Woodruff said Mr. Currie voted for the Esh-Cummings law which made it unlawful for two men to quit work at the same time. This is not true for the Esh-Cummings act says nothing of the kind, and, if it did, it could never become a law, for such an act could not be passed in any American congress. There is a clause in the act prohibiting strikes, and providing a tribunal where all grievances may be settled without the great losses to industry and in wages of the working men that necessarily occur in great strikes.

The speaker took a rap at the primary law, and in his stand was in accord with practically every politician in the country—none of them like the present primary law, and the people generally understand its short comings. This must be changed, we all agree. Mr. Woodruff's plan is for having the candidate receiving the largest number of votes be declared the presidential nominee, and the one receiving the next largest number be declared the nominee for vice-president. The plan sounds, after a superficial consideration, to be very worthy and feasible, and would then place the privilege directly up to the people for making the nominations.

The high cost of living and profiteering shared well in the talk of Mr. Woodruff and here again he proved that he either was not well informed or took this method of extracting votes from the friends of his opponent. He claimed that Currie charged the laborers with being the cause. Those who heard Mr. Currie talk here some time last month will recall his words in which he stated that the high cost of living could only be brot down by increasing production until it became greater than the demand, and just so long as there is a shortage of commodities there will be inflation of prices. There may be many causes to bring about this condition, and those who are responsible for them must bear the burden of the blame whether it be the laboring men; the auto factories that are snatching workers from every other industry, including agriculture; mismanagement of industries or a hundred other troubles.

In his effort to get the farmer votes Mr. Woodruff waved before his auditors the claim that that class had been discriminated against by having maximum prices set upon their products, above which prices they were prohibited from accepting; and stating that this class was the only one so restricted. It is not pleasant to take exceptions to men of Mr. Woodruff's class; we like to know them personally and hold them in high confidence; and we all like you immensely Doc, but we know that you do not speak the truth when you say that the farmer's product was the only one restricted in price during the time you mention—war time. We have only to go to our local du Pont plant to find some of their articles of manufacture upon which sale price limits were placed, above which amounts they must not charge. And then go to your local coal dealer and you will be informed that the operator was prohibited from charging over a specific amount, and that the dealer could add the cost of freight and a definite amount of profit. You have the means right in town to disprove Mr. Woodruff's statement. And there are other things upon which a maximum price was set. This clearly proves that either Mr. Woodruff in his over-anxiety to obtain votes in the primary election for congressmen next Tuesday, is telling a deliberate falsehood or is either poorly informed on his subject. We prefer to believe the latter. The fact is there wasn't enough restriction, for had there been there wouldn't have been made thousands of millionaires during this war. There was gross discrimination but the farmer was not the only victim, as was stated.

He failed to mention the Plumb plan league in his address, altho that was the principal topic of his opponent's address here some weeks ago, and one upon which he is at variance with the railroad workers. When asked privately what was his opinion of the said Plumb plan for the administration of railroads, he replied that he was not informed in the matter; that he had not given the matter any attention. This is surprising for that question is one of the big issues, if not the principal one, between he and Mr. Currie. His reply is either an evasion or else it is a manifestation of weakness of knowledge on one of the very subjects that should be first in his mind at this time when he wishes to represent the 10th district of Michigan in congress.

Mr. Woodruff has a splendid record of service in war time. He served both in the Spanish war and the late war, which is certainly to his high credit. Mr. Currie did not do a uniform but like a lot of us was doing his duty here at home. Mr. Woodruff came here to make votes. We fail to understand how he has bettered himself, and we believe he may consider himself pretty lucky if he has not lost some votes he may have had had he remained away from Grayling. This is the day and age when men and women are informed and are able to look beyond the mask of the political speaker and read their thots and must find recorded more than the mere desire for votes. This is the primary object, of course, but full allowance is made for it in the weighing of words and sometimes also in the omission of statements.

COURT HOLDS UP
RAIL RATE DROP

INTRA-STATE PASSENGER FARES REMAIN TEMPORARILY AT THREE CENTS A MILE.

STATE LAW AND I. C. CLASH

Last Legislature Passed Law Setting
Fare At 2½ Cents a Mile—
Federal Court to Decide.

Detroit.—Arthur J. Tuttle, federal Judge has signed an order temporarily restraining the Michigan Public Utilities Commission and the attorney-general from enforcing the intra-state passenger rate of 2 1/2 cents a mile as set by the last Legislature and which would have become effective Sept. 1.

He directed attorneys for five Michigan railroads to prepare the order immediately for signature. The order is to be effective and the passenger rate for intra-state travel will remain at 3 cents until suits questioning the respective jurisdiction of the Michigan State Utilities Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission are jointly heard before Judge Tuttle Sept. 13.

Two additional railroad rate actions, bringing the total number to five, were filed in Federal Court Monday. They are by the Detroit & Mackinaw and the Big Four. The three first cases, filed Saturday, were by the Michigan Central, New York Central and the Pere Marquette railroads.

The actions state that the three-cent rate allowed during Government ownership should continue for six months. The Interstate Commerce Commission in its recent rate decision allowed an increase for interstate commerce to 3.6 cents a mile. The Michigan rate, as set for intra-state commerce at 2 1/2 cents a mile, is discriminatory against traffic within the state, the bills allege.

SENATE FUND QUIZ PROCEEDS

Committee Investigating Campaign
Expenses Continues Probe.

Chicago.—Chairmen Will Hays and George White, of the Republican and Democratic national committees, respectively, the treasurer of each committee and the treasurers of the senatorial and congressional campaign committees of each party last week were ordered to appear before the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures here next Monday.

The committee directed them to bring all books and papers relating to campaign collections and expenditures. The committee directed Senator Kenyon, its chairman, to telegraph Gov. James M. Saginaw.—State Game Warden John Baird recommended to the public domain commission that the deer hunting season allowed in five lower peninsula counties be shortened, from 20 to 15 days. Hunting in the rest of the lower peninsula counties will be re-opened this year. The deer season will be from Nov. 10 to 24.

Grand Rapids.—Private Thurlio Keller, of the Grand Rapids army recruiting office, caused a church usher's eyes to open wide Sunday when he absent mindedly layed two tiny dotted ivory squares on the contribution plate as it was passed to him. They received the pastor's invocation as did the other "money" lodged on the plate.

Detroit.—Greater Detroit will have a population of 2,250,000 in 1940, the prediction made by Franz Kuhn, president of the Michigan state telephone company. He based his estimate upon the survey made by telephone officials, which covers every phase of the telephone business and which is made in order that the company may prepare for the development of a city in 15 or 20 years. Kuhn does believe the city will grow much in area but that the tendency of the next several years will be to concentrate the population.

Caro.—Forty-six bales of furs valued at $80,000; 50 cases of high-grade shoes, and two live calves were seized in a raid on a cache of alleged stolen goods near Vassar, Tuscola county. Four men, Dick Cuddaba, 38, who has a Jackson prison record, and Fred, Gus and Otto Dick, 22, 24 and 32, were arrested on charges of theft and held on bonds of $10,000 for Cuddaba and $5,000 each for the other three. In addition to the other alleged loot, recovered, the officers seized several hundred dollars' worth of costly rugs and a quantity of aluminum ware.

POLES CAPTURE 35,000 PRISONERS

REPULSE REDS FROM GATES OF WARSAW BY DESPERATE COUNTER-ATTACKS.

FRENCH GENERALS AID POLES

Famous Commanders Lead in Counter-Attack—Colby Says U. S. Aid is Hampered by Politics.

Warsaw.—Military authorities Sunday announced that the Poles have captured 35,000 prisoners to date in their counter-attack against the bolsheviks. Many guns, thousands of rifles, hundreds of machine guns and munitions carts and a great number of horses also have fallen into their hands. Thousands of reds are thought to be cut off in the forests, awaiting an opportunity to surrender.

Reds Flee in Disorder.

Warsaw.—Polish successes on all fronts are reported in the official statement on fighting operations.

Russian soviet forces are fleeing in a disorderly panic along the front between the Vistula and Bug rivers, where the Poles are advancing with extraordinary success, says the official statement.

The newspapers assert that the military crisis has been passed and assure the public that Warsaw is absolutely safe.

French Generals Help Poles.

Paris.—Warsaw now seems to be saved from the bolsheviks. President Pilsudski's armies no longer are obliged to fight a defensive battle.

The offensive on the left wing is being personally led by the French generals, Henry and Billotte, and already has yielded important results. It has once more put the Poles in possession of the key to the Warsaw defenses—the fork between the Narw and Bug Rivers.

Colby Says Politics Hinder Aid.

Washington.—A declaration that the American government would support Polish independence "to the full extent of the constitutional power confided in the executive" was made last week by Secretary Colby. Speaking to a delegation of American citizens of Polish extraction who called at both the White House and state department to present memorials adopted at recent mass meetings over the country.

Colby said: "Every measure that can legally be taken will be adopted to render effectual the position of this country."

The secretary of state declared, however, that the question of material aid on any broad scale was a political one.

SUFFRAGE FOES CHARGE BRIBE

Tennessee Vote Fight Being Probed By Grand Jury.

Nashville, Tenn.—Developments resulting from the bitter suffrage fight in the Tennessee legislature came thick and fast immediately following the first vote of ratification by the lower house.

Judge Debow charged the grand jury in the Davidson County criminal court on the subject of efforts improperly to influence or corrupt the law-making body of the state. Two Nashville newspapers published affidavits charging that undue influence had been brought to bear on Rep. Burn, Republican, of McMinn County, to change his vote in favor of the federal amendment, and Mr. Burn, in a communication to the house, bitterly raised charges, declaring them utterly false.

MINE WAGE CONFERENCE FAILS

No Agreement Reached At Meeting of Operators and Workers.

Cleveland.—Miners attending a conference of the joint scale committee of the central competitive field—Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Western Pennsylvania—held a policy meeting following failure of the joint conference to agree on the miners' demands for increased wages, adjourned sine die after voting unanimously that miners in each of the four states will seek to make a supplemental and separate agreement with operators in the field.

This practically disrupts the central field as a bargaining point.

Inasmuch as the joint conference was called by President Wilson for the purpose of adjusting inequalities existing in the present wage scale agreement, operators and miners sent separate telegrams to the president advising him of the failure of the conference to reach an agreement.

Coat of Tar for Cattle Rustlers.

Alliance, Neb.—Members of a vigilance committee of ranchers have put a stop to cattle rustling in the vicinity of Ellsworth, Neb., by applying a coat of tar and feathers to an alleged rustler, according to a report received here. After cattle thieves were reported to have increased their activities, an alleged rustler was caught by the committee, whose members applied the tar and feathers and then allowed the captive his freedom. Since then no further thefts have occurred.

"Auto Lizards" Fined for "Mashing."

New York.—Denouncing them as "auto lizards" who could expect no mercy from his court, Magistrate Schwab fined Carlos Barban chauffeur, and Emilio Fournier, chauffeur, $20 each for alleged "automobile mashing." Barban was unable to pay and went to jail for 20 days. The magistrate commended the alertness of detectives of the vice squad. They testified the men were driving close to the curb along Broadway seeking to entice girls to ride with them.

France Hopes to Renew Loan.

New York.—While planning to pay the share of the Anglo-French loan of $500,000,000 when it matures, Oct. 15, France hopes to obtain another loan, Jean Parmentier, official representative of the French ministry of finance declared in an unofficial statement on his arrival here Monday to confer with American bankers.

M. Parmentier admitted he had come to negotiate with several American bankers, including representatives of J. P. Morgan & Co.

"FINANCIAL WIZARD" HELD FOR TRIAL NEXT MONTH

CHARLES PONZI.

Boston.—After being arraigned in federal court on a charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with his plan to pay 60 per cent in 45 days on all investments, Charles Ponzi waived examination and was held in $25,000 for the September session of court.

Ponzi's liabilities as uncovered by the state attorney general, total nearly $5,000,000, representing claims of 10,200 investors plus the 50 per cent interest promised.

MUSKEGON BLAST KILLS SEVEN

Sulphur Drum in Rubber Plant Explodes—Cause Undetermined.

Muskegon, Mich.—Caught behind steel gratings, which made escape or rescue impossible, three workmen were instantly killed as a result of a series of explosions and fire which destroyed most of the rubber plant of the Brunswick-Balke Collender company, last week.

Four other men were fatally injured and died after being removed to hospitals.

The dead are: Rant Little, Thomas Plinkerton, Vergil C. Maury, Charles Nelson, James Julian, Charles Miller and J. P. Fowler.

The damage to the rubber plant of the company is estimated at $75,000. The men were working in the basement of the rubber plant, known as the dust room, and without warning a large sulphur drum exploded and caught fire.

Coroner James F. Balbirnie stated that he had been at the plant investigating and had been unable to learn what caused the explosion.

SUGAR PRICE TAKES BIG DROP

Cost Declines Ten Cents Per Pound Within a Week.

Detroit.—With a drop in the price of sugar from 27 to 30 cents a pound to 17 cents a pound within a week, Detroit wholesale dealers are said to have been unable to find a market for tons of the commodity which held up in price since the war. Detroit is said to be overloaded with sugar, many dealers being faced with the probability of a serious loss.

The consensus of opinion, as gleaned from statements made by both retailers and wholesalers, is that the speculator has been caught between the wheels and is climbing out from under with ungraceful and unusual rapidity.

Perhaps the factor most instrumental in bringing down the price of sugar is the recent check on the expansion of bank credits. This has checked speculation and the hoarding of the commodity for higher prices.

EXPORT COAL MOVE CHECKED

San Placed On Tidewater Shipments—Miners in Indiana Strike.

Washington.—An immediate embargo on the movement of coal to tidewater except upon a definite showing that the coal upon arrival at piers would be unloaded into vessels with reasonable promptness has been agreed upon by the railroads. It was announced by the American railroad association.

Strike Closes Indiana Mines.

Indianapolis.—Strikes by day men in mines of the Indiana coal field have resulted in the closing of several shafts. The strikes followed the failure of the wage scale conference of miners and operators at Cleveland to reach an agreement on wages asked by the day men.

Note Identifies "Joe."

Philadelphia.—A letter which the police believe establishes the identity of the mysterious "Joe," named by Augusto Pasquale as the actual kidnaper of baby Blakely Coughlin, was unearthed yesterday. It was written by Pasquale in July, 1919, a year before the kidnapping, and while he was serving a term. With this corroborative of Pasquale's story, authorities have again abandoned the theory that he worked alone in stealing the child and are looking for the man.

$300,000 Bail Fund Ready.

New York.—The American civil liberties union has announced the creation of a national bail fund of $300,000 to be used in an effort to effect the release of "hundreds of political prisoners held for trial or imprisoned during appeal after conviction." At the present time there are probably more than 2,000 such persons either in prison or out on bail pending appeal, and there are many more who could be out if there were funds available for bail.

Sing Sing's Publication Stopped.

Ossining, N. Y.—The Sing Sing magazine edited by inmates of Sing Sing Prison, and said to have a circulation stretching to Europe and Asia, has suspended publication. Protests against suspension of the paper have been sent Gov. Smith by former U. S. Sen. George W. Wickersham, Judge Otto Rosalesky, Adolph Lewisohn and others.

It was said, Charles F. Rattigan, superintendent of state prisons, three months ago ordered the circulation of the Bulletin reduced to 1,500 copies.

Home owners who refuse to be educated to the use of bituminous coal will go cold this winter in many cases he said.

THE MAN WHO WASN'T HIMSELF

ROBERT AMES BENNET

"YOU BLACKMAILER!"

SYNOPSIS.—Alighting from a train at Denver a traveler is greeted as "Will" by an elderly lady and gentleman, who stop their auto to speak. He imagines it a case of mistaken identity and introduces himself as "Richard Clinton," on his way to the coast. The couple appear greatly surprised, and learning he is to be in town until midnight, the lady, introducing herself as Mrs. Kirkland, and her husband as Doctor Kirkland, invite him to dinner, explaining the action by his truly remarkable resemblance to a friend of theirs. At the Kirkland home he meets a young lady who greets him as her fiancé. She is Ellen Kirkland, and plainly is greatly hurt by his assertion that he is Richard Clinton. At dinner Clinton learns that his host is a medical specialist and that he is believed to be Will Lowrie, a young man who had been suffering from a nervous breakdown and had gone East for medical treatment. Lowrie had had in his possession bonds of the value of $100,000, belonging to the bank where he was employed, which he has no recollection. With Doctor Kirkland Clinton goes to the Lowrie home, the doctor being satisfied that Amy Lowrie, Will's sister, will convince Clinton he is really Lowrie, suffering from loss of memory. Amy declares at once that her brother, and insists on treating him as such, to his great embarrassment. Doctor Kirkland sends a telegram to the sanitarium where Lowrie is undergoing treatment. Ellen and Amy try in vain to convince Clinton he is Will Lowrie. They manage, however, to prevent his going. Bemm, a suitor of Amy and an agent of the bank, moves in the matter of the missing bonds. The sanitarium telegram proves nothing. Bemm wants Amy to return to him the price of shielding Will in the bond matter. Amy goes to Clinton at night to tell him about Bemm and make him brush her hair. Clinton temporarily convinces her he is not her brother. He starts to leave Denver and is arrested. He declares they are all crazy or else there is a conspiracy.

CHAPTER IX—Continued.

"As a friend of the—that is, of Mr. Lowrie," he remarked, "may I be permitted to suggest that this idea of his about a conspiracy rather supports Doctor Kirkland's theory of irresponsibility."

Clinton set his jaw and stood silent, evidently resolved to say no more. Doctor Kirkland smiled approval. "That is better, my boy. Keep cool. Over-excitement is good for no one. May I see the warrant?"

The official produced the warrant. The physician glanced through it with an experienced eye. "H'm—embezzlement of the bonds—Will Lowrie, alias Richard Clinton."

"Pardon me," remarked Bemm somewhat diffidently. "I wish to say I happen to know that the—er—party representing the bank in this matter is inclined to accept my theory that our friend disposed of—that is to say, misplaced the bonds while mentally irresponsible."

"Then why have they acted so outrageously to him?" demanded Amy.

"Had he not attempted to leave town, y' know?"

"That is the worst of it!" exclaimed Mrs. Kirkland. "The publicity! The scandal!"

"Madam," reassured the official, "there has been no publicity so far; and there need be none if Mr. Lowrie can account for the bonds. We here are the only ones who know of his arrest, except the plain-clothes man who caught him at the depot. He won't leak."

"One moment, officer, if you please," interrupted Doctor Kirkland. He fixed his keen gaze on Clinton. "If released from custody would you leave town?"

Clinton looked at Amy, and suddenly his anger vanished. He even smiled as he answered: "Those who dance must pay the piper. I could have telegraphed for my proofs; I could have told you all about my life. But I was too stubborn to do either. Bemm and this official refuse to believe my full statement about myself and my business. Therefore I now refuse to telegraph or say anything more, except that I no longer have any wish to go away. I wish to stay, even though it be in jail, until you have disproved this ridiculous charge and I am free to go."

He looked at Amy, smiled and strolled over to gaze at a photograph in the far corner of the room. Amy gazed after him, to stand by his side and fondle his hand in silent sympathy. Ellen looked longingly at the couple, but lingered to hear what her father was saying to the official.

"This charge of conspiracy clearly indicates his delusional predisposition. You have my word, sir, that he was and is mentally irresponsible for his actions, in the full legal senses of the term."

The official looked his concern. "Sorry, doctor, but in the case of a warrant—"

"Very true," agreed the physician. "He must be kept in custody, unless admitted to bail. That does not prevent you from deputizing me and placing him in my custody. What he requires is sanitarium treatment. Confinement in jail would probably shatter his mind beyond all hope of recovery. The sanitarium, on the contrary, may restore him to his old self and enable him to remember how he lost the bonds."

Bemm smiled slyly at the police official. "Ah. Is that case I venture to request you to accede to Doctor Kirkland's suggestion. I feel sure you may safely intrust Mr. Lowrie in his custody. Consider me as the doctor's second in the matter—er—what is the term?—his guarantor, if I am considered to have any standing."

"H'm," muttered the official. "It's a queer case. Well, I guess I'll take the responsibility of deputizing Doctor Kirkland and entrusting the prisoner to his custody. There's no precedent for it; but considering the circumstances and the fact that the doctor has often helped out the department with expert advice, I'll risk it."

The physician bowed in acknowledgment and walked over to Clinton. "My boy," he said, "we cannot compel you to give over your fancied idea of a conspiracy against you. However, our friend here has agreed to get you at liberty on my recognition. All I ask of you is your word as a gentleman that you will remain in Denver until cleared of this charge."

Clinton turned and impulsively held out his hand. "Doctor, I beg your pardon for my suspicion. It was the only way I could account for the persistence of everybody in identifying me with Mr. Lowrie. I see that I must have been mistaken. I give you my word that I will not leave town until I am cleared of this false and ridiculous charge."

"We shall stay with Amy until her—your mother returns," rather hastily remarked Mrs. Kirkland. She covered the betrayal of the doubt that troubled her with a smile, gracious and cordial. "And now you and Amy must come home to lunch with us."

"And Charlie, too," added Ellen, looking at Amy. She gave him a grateful glance. He started for the door. "Count on me. I'd like to go with you, but I shall hunt up Will's suitcase and take it home for him on my way."

CHAPTER X.

Blackmail.

When Bemm drove up to the Kirkland residence in his big touring car he found Clinton dozing in a swing-bench, and the girls on guard over him. Each had her charming nose in a magazine that she might not be tempted to chatter and thereby disturb the repose of their drowsy charge.

Bemm's arrival roused Clinton, and for some time the four talked on impersonal topics. At last Ellen and Amy went inside. Bemm promptly shifted to a seat near Clinton and remarked in a sympathetic tone: "That was rotten—their serving you with a warrant. But I suppose they thought they were justified, when you started to leave town."

"I suppose so," acquiesced Clinton. "The fact, however, is that nothing was further from my thoughts than those Lowrie bonds."

"Frankly," said Bemm, "what puzzles me is that you wished to go at all."

Clinton looked at Amy, and suddenly his anger vanished. He even smiled as he answered: "Those who dance must pay the piper. I could have telegraphed for my proofs; I could have told you all about my life. But I was too stubborn to do either. Bemm and this official refuse to believe my full statement about myself and my business. Therefore I now refuse to telegraph or say anything more, except that I no longer have any wish to go away. I wish to stay, even though it be in jail, until you have disproved this ridiculous charge and I am free to go."

"Must I repeat—"

"No. Yet you cannot deny you have this feeling, this prejudice against me, with regard to Amy."

"You refer to Miss Lowrie, I presume."

"Duce take it!" exclaimed Bemm. "Haven't I stood your friend in this police affair? Am I not entitled to some consideration from you?"

"Very well," said Clinton. "Now if you will kindly proceed to elucidate what you are driving at."

"Right-O! We're getting down to bedrock," replied Bemm. "You're listening to me as her brother; you have my word that I am not so frivolous or fast—as I am said to be; and you know how I regard your sister. I may not be as desirable a match as she is, but I am eligible, as you know, and though I seem to be doing nothing, I really am engaged in a serious and ambitious vocation."

"One moment," said Clinton. "You insisted that I play the part of Miss Lowrie's brother; but I have not asked for any confidences from you. Kindly remember that you are speaking to a stranger."

"Indeed? Really now, you can't fancy you can shunt me off the track at this stage of the game," scoffed Bemm. "A man in your situation might be expected to catch at hints. Perhaps your head really is added. I'll give you the benefit of the doubt."

"Thanks," said Clinton. "If it is not added, you certainly are a cool one," rejoined Bemm. "Don't you realize what a hole you are in over those bonds? Admitting for the sake of the argument that you remember nothing about them, I will explain that I know enough of what you did to put you through."

"Most kind of you to tell me, Mr. Bemm."

Bemm's gray-brown eyes lost their deceptive shallowness. Clinton looked into their depths and saw the man behind the jester. His steely glance struck flint instead of rubber. But Bemm's voice was very soft: "You see, old man, it is still a matter between friends. All you need do is to find the bonds, or their equivalent in money, if they have been disposed of. Doctor Kirkland believes you were irresponsible. If you have used any of the—er—proceeds, there's no doubt he will advance you the amount. If that is done—the bank will accept his theory of your mental condition, and will allow the matter to be hushed up. This is provided I forget certain facts that, if recalled by me, would knock the doctor's hypothesis into a cocked hat."

"So—you remember certain facts?" muttered Clinton.

"My dear Will, let us say that I do not now remember them. One may easily forget, where a friend is concerned. All I ask is that you, in turn, show your friendship by intimating the situation to Amy—Miss Lowrie. Nothing raw, y'know. Just a hint. She admits that she likes me, and you know how she is. A word from you in my favor, and she would at once—"

For all his quickness, Bemm was not quick enough to elude the hand that shot out to clutch his collar. He pulled back to free himself. In the same instant Clinton rose over him, white with anger. Without a word, Clinton jerked him to his feet, whirled him around and rushed him to the head of the porch steps. Clinton's shoe assisted his flight down the steps.

The audacity even more than the suddenness of the attack had paralyzed Bemm's power of resistance. The spell was broken by the shock of his landing on the hard cement walk at the foot of the steps. He scrambled to his feet, his face twitching with fury. He put his hand to his hip.

"Drop that hand," ordered Clinton in a tone barely above a whisper.

Bemm's furious glance fell before the look in Clinton's eyes. His hand slipped down, away from the hip-pocket. Clinton descended a step, and spoke in the same low-pitched tone: "You blackmailer—you cur! Get out of here!"

Again Bemm tried to face the other's look, and again his glance wavered and fell. He turned and walked hurriedly down to the curb. The three of his big car tore holes in the street surfacing, so violently did he throw on the full power of the engine.

A girlish exclamation caused the tense watcher to look about. Amy stood in the doorway, staring after the swift-flying car.

"Why, it's Charlie!" she cried. "Whatever is the matter?—Oh! Will! your face! You look as if—as if—"

She flung herself at him.

He sprang to meet and sweep her back into the house.

"No—not out here!" he muttered. "Private, where none can see or hear—till he comes back—The cur! the damned cur!"

"Hush! hush, dear!" urged the girl, putting up a hand over her mouth.

"Oh, Will!" cried Ellen in the entrance of the drawing room. "You swore!"

"The scoundrel! The—the—" Clinton choked with wrath.

Between them, the girls hurried him into a secluded room where he could not be heard. There he found voice; but the words that burst forth were so incoherent with rage that neither girl could understand what he said. Overcome with dread of his wild outburst, Ellen fled to tell her mother that he had become violently insane.

Mrs. Kirkland hastened to telephone the calamitous news to her husband. As soon as she received his promise to at once come home, she started to the rescue of Amy, timidly followed by Ellen. With a trepidation that by contrast emphasized her moral courage, the lady opened the door of the room in which Ellen had left the maniac. No sound came from within. Her pale face increased. Shuddering with dread of what might be within, she rushed into the room. Ellen followed, with more fearful of what they might find.

Clinton was reposing in the depths of a big "sleepy-billow" chair, as peaceful and still as if asleep. Amy, perched on the arm of the chair, was stroking his forehead and closed eyes. She looked about at the intruders and touched her lips for silence. But her patient had opened his eyes. At sight of the frightened ladies, he captured Amy's hand and set up in the chair, his face red with embarrassment. "Oh keep your seat! Do not disturb yourself! Be calm!" urged Mrs. Kirkland.

Amy freed an arm and slipped it about his neck. "You are calm now. Aren't you, dear?" she soothed.

"Yes—yes, of course," murmured Clinton, but his color deepened.

"But, dearest," murmured Ellen, "you must be dizzy. You look so queer."

Clinton's expression became still more peculiar. His features were convulsed. He wagged his hands. "This—this—" he gasped. "Whatever I—I don't you—Chocolate Soldier!"

They looked at one another in acute alarm. There now could be no doubt as to his condition. He sought to explain: "The—the opera."

"Opera?" repeated Amy. "Oh, yes—yes, we understand, dear. You are reminded of that opera, when the hero comes into the castle and the ladies make such a fuss of him. Yes, dear, we understand. So now hush and be quiet."

"Drop That Hand," Ordered Clinton.

But instead of obeying, he flung himself back in the chair and burst into a roar of laughter. The outburst was far more violent than the first. It did not end until he lay helpless from spent emotion, tears rolling down his cheeks, and his hands feebly beating the arms of the chair. Mrs. Kirkland hovered over him, ready with the bottle of lavender salts. On either side of him knelt Amy and Ellen, each with her arm about his neck, her head against his shoulder, and a hand stroking his face.

"Save—save the pieces!" he panted. The girls redoubled their tender caresses. Mrs. Kirkland held her bottle under his nose. He took a whiff, and groaned: "Alas! Who shall deliver me out of the hands of mine—my friends?"

They exchanged anxious glances, and Mrs. Kirkland whispered: "Hysteria!"

He pulled himself together, caught the girls' hands and his breath, and remarked in a conversational tone: "My dear Mrs. Kirkland, will you consider it hysterical if I observe that a cup of tea—"

"He's coming to himself!" shrieked Ellen.

"He has come to himself!" shrieked Amy.

Clinton enjoys "relaxation and quiet."

VIOLENT LOVERS OF WOMEN

Writer Implies That Fierce Wooers Are Not Altogether in Disfavor With Fair Sex.

A young widow complained recently to a magistrate of the action of an admirer of hers who had fallen into the habit of springing at her from doorways "like an angry lion." He swore that if he could not have her, no one else should.

Women say they do not like that kind of lover. But is the fair sex quite to be trusted when they make this statement?

Savage man did not ask the woman of his choice. "Wilt thou be mine?" He made himself a stout club with a good knob at the end and "ran after" the woman in the literal sense.

Above her head he swung the club with an energy peculiar to savage man. Tremblingly she answered, "Yes," long before he "popped the question." And the savage equivalent for a priest—if there was one—quickly spliced them. His fee consisting of immunity from a clout on the head.

Did the savage maiden enjoy this kind of wooing? No doubt she found her husband was not so savage as he appeared at first sight, and grew reconciled.

She had, undoubtedly, a certain fierceness of her own. And probably there were henpecked husbands even in those days.

There have been many savage wooers in history. King Henry VIII is a notorious example. There was no saying "nay" to King Hal. He had such a taking way with him that he took as many wives as he wanted. And his affection was keen as an ax. It only cooled with death—the death, that is, of the latest wife.—Exchange.

Puzzle for Archeologists. Archeologists are puzzled by the prehistoric carving of a lion near Vera Cruz. Efforts have been made to trace the origin of this little known relic of prehistoric America, but have thus far proved futile. The similarity to the African lion rather than the mountain lion of this hemisphere has added to the mystery.

Politeness is not all mere polish. You have to give up quite often something you like.

FIGHT FOR VOTES IS WON BY WOMEN

Thirty-Six States Have Ratified Amendment.

TENNESSEE FALLS INTO LINE

Washington Is the Thirty-Fifth—Seventy Years of Struggle for Equal Suffrage—Features and Some Immortal Names.

Washington.—American women have won their fight for votes. Washington and Tennessee have ratified the constitutional amendment, making 36 states out of 48.

Upon the opening March 22 of the special sessions of the legislatures of Washington and Delaware, the woman suffrage situation in the United States was briefly this:

Amendment to the Constitution passed by congress June 4, 1919, as drafted in 1875 by Susan B. Anthony: "The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex." Ratification necessary by legislatures of three-fourths of the 48 states of the Union.

Amendment ratified by 34 states, beginning with Wisconsin, June 10, 1919, and ending with West Virginia March 10, 1920. Constitutionality of Ohio ratification before the United States Supreme court.

Amendment defeated by six states between September 12, 1919, and February 17, 1920, as follows, in the order named: Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Virginia, Maryland.

Connecticut and Vermont—No regular sessions until 1921. Governors had refused to call special sessions.

Florida and Tennessee—Cannot vote in 1920 because of constitutional provision requiring election to intervene between submission of amendment and action on it.

Louisiana—Legislature to meet in June; small hope of ratification.

North Carolina—Legislature to meet in special session in August. Gov. Thomas W. Bickett had declared his intention to ask for ratification.

Washington promptly ratified. Delaware and Louisiana refused. The governors of Connecticut, Florida and Vermont refused to call special sessions. The United States Supreme court upheld the Ohio ratification on the ground that no state constitution had the authority to change in any detail the method which the United States Constitution itself provides for its amendment. This decision cleared the way for the special session in Tennessee, which began August 9.

It is seventy years since the organized movement for woman suffrage was begun in the United States. In 1848 Lucretia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton called the first Woman's Rights convention at Seneca Falls, N.

Susan B. Anthony.

Y., which launched a "Declaration of Sentiments" and passed a resolution demanding equal suffrage.

These are two immortal names in American history. Lucretia Mott (1793-1880) was born in Nantucket, Mass., of Quaker parents. After teaching, she became an "acknowledged minister" of the Friends. She married James Mott, who worked with his wife against slavery.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton (1815-1902) was born in Johnston, N. Y. She married in 1840 Henry B. Stanton, a journalist and anti-slavery speaker.

CULTIVATED CHESTNUTS.

Southern Californians are wondering whether the growing of the sweet chestnut is not destined to be one of the coming industries of the state. The appearance of a fine row of chestnut trees on the outskirts of the city of Santa Ana, in Orange county, California, suggested to a recent eastern visitor the fact that the chestnut as a future crop for California may rival before many years the enormous walnut output.

Men fear thought as they fear nothing else on earth—more than ruin, more even than death. Thought is subversive and revolutionary, destructive and terrible; thought is merciless to privilege, established institutions and comfortable habits; thought is anarchic and lawless, indifferent to authority, careless of the well-tried wisdom of the ages. Thought looks into the pit of hell and is not afraid.—Bertrand Russell.

THOUGHT.

From 1880 to 1893 she was president of the National Woman Suffrage association. She was the joint author of "History of Woman Suffrage" (1881-8) and "Eighty Years or More" (1890) is her autobiography.

A third name is that of Susan B. Anthony (1820-1906). She joined with Lucretia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton in organizing the woman suffrage movement. She became in time the real leader of the movement; certainly she was its first militant and fearless. Born in Adams, Mass., she came of Quaker stock, and early devoted herself to "temperance" (the prohibition of those days) and to the abolition of slavery.

In 1875 Miss Anthony drafted the amendment to the Constitution which has now been ratified. In 1878 the amendment was introduced in the senate by Senator Sargent of California. It was defeated in 1887 and thereafter was not even debated in congress until 1914.

During the years the Constitutional amendment campaign was making no progress the women won many victories in the states, securing full suffrage in 15; presidential suffrage in 12 and partial suffrage in several others.

The National American Woman Suffrage association in 1912 opened headquarters in Washington and began an active campaign for the passage of the amendment. In 1916 it established branch headquarters there which were devoted entirely to the amendment campaign. The campaign was educational and social as well as political and attracted worldwide attention.

The National Woman's party, organized in 1910 by Alice Paul, established Washington headquarters in 1913 and introduced the militant into the campaign.

Alice Paul—the third Quakeress to immortalize herself—is the spectacular figure of the struggle. She developed the deadliest card index on members of congress that served politics has ever seen.

Through the White House pickets that the president was the "man higher up." The arrest of nearly 500 of these pickets and the imposition of jail sentences followed. Incidentally Miss Paul herself served seven terms in jail.

The amendment was beaten three times in the senate and once in the house before it was finally passed by the Sixty-sixth congress June 4, 1919, by the necessary two-thirds majority.

The year 1899 saw the formation of two national organizations: National Woman Suffrage association, with Mrs.

Alice Paul.

Stanton and Miss Anthony leaders and headquarters in New York; American Woman Suffrage association, with Mary A. Livermore, Julia Ward Howe and Lucy Stone leaders and headquarters in Boston. The line of division was this: The former wished to concentrate on the passage of a constitutional amendment; the latter was in favor of obtaining the suffrage through amendments to state constitutions. In 1890 the two organizations were united under the name of National American Woman Suffrage Association, and work was pushed along both lines of endeavor.

Mrs. Stanton was president until 1892. Miss Anthony served until 1900, resigning at the age of eighty. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt was its head, 1900-1904. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, recently deceased and possibly best loved of all the leaders—a woman of transcendent gifts and eloquence—was president until 1915. Mrs. Catt was then again chosen. Mrs. Frank Leslie left a large legacy to Mrs. Catt to be used in the work.

The National association made arrangements at the St. Louis convention of 1919 to dissolve its organization and become the League of Women Voters. These arrangements became effective at the Chicago convention in February last. So the League of Women Voters now holds sway over something like 27,000,000 potential American women voters.

Mrs. Catt, who is also the head of the International Woman Suffrage alliance, which she founded in 1904, is honorary chairman; Mrs. Maud Wood Park is chairman; Mrs. Richard Edwards of Indiana, treasurer; Mrs. Solon Jacobs of Alabama, secretary, and there is a board of regional directors.

THE FREE METHODIST CONFERENCE MAKES SOME CHANGES.

Rev. Carpenter and Wife to be Succeeded by Two Lady Pastors.

Rev. Ray Carpenter and family have returned from Flint, where they have been the past few weeks. On returning they attended the 46th meeting of the North Michigan Conference.

This meeting is held annually and all the circuits of the North Michigan conference are represented; there are about 54 circuits represented in this conference, with a representation of about two thousand or twenty-five hundred members. At this meeting, with the bishop presiding, the business of the entire conference is transacted and the preachers are appointed to their various fields by what is called a stationing committee, composed of the four district elders, four laymen and the bishop presiding.

As our work is spreading to new fields conference at this session took action and separated the Grand Traverse district from the Soo district, placing a man on the Soo district and one for Grand Traverse district. This making five district elders.

Just a word once more in regard to the work here in your own little city. As the most of the people know this is a new work only being about a year old. And naturally every one has been wondering and asking the question, will they succeed? Just a word from the Rev. Skanes, who had charge of the work during the past year finding it was too much for him with his other work secured the services of your humble servant to look after it for him. So we moved here in February and tried to do the best we could to build the work and it is here to stay. Now as the Conference year is closed, conference divided the two circuits, Kingsley and Grayling making Grayling an independent place, sending as pastors for the work here Rev. Mamie B. Clark and Rev. Schroyer, two very Godly women and able speakers, who have had considerable experience in the evangelistic fields. If you wish to hear good clean straight gospel truth, come and here them. They are women who will do all in their power to make Grayling a better place to live in and anyone who may ever be in trouble especially any lady, will find a friend and sister in these two women of God.

And now, together with my wife, we take this opportunity of thanking the people of Grayling for their kindness to us while in charge of the work here. As our plans are uncertain yet in regards to our future work we will remain in Grayling for a time at least. Yours Respectfully, Rev. Ray and Ruth Carpenter.

MECOSTA COUNTY STRONG FOR CURRIE.

Reports from all parts of the County indicate that Congressman Currie's majority from Mecosta will be larger than ever this year.

The soldier boys are all strong in their praise of the Congressman for the manner in which he has looked after their interests. Mr. Currie was one of the strongest supporters of the bill for adjusted compensation which passed the House, and will probably be acted upon by the Senate in December.

His prompt reply to all letters and close attention given to other matters referred to him has won for him hundreds of warm supporters in Mecosta.

Indications point to a large Primary vote, and it would not be surprising if Mr. Currie's majority in Mecosta runs over 2000.—Mecosta News.

Gilbert A. Currie For Congress

Congressman Currie has a record of accomplishment.

He has won the admiration of thinking people everywhere

He has been commended by the State and National Grange, Gleaners and farm bureaus for his splendid and aggressive support of legislative matters in which farmers are interested.

Mr. Currie will have no paid workers. He depends upon good men and women to protect their own interests by seeing to it that radical labor agitators and purchaseable politicians with their lies and boodle do not succeed in their purpose.

SHALL THE AMERICAN LABOR FEDERATION OR THE AMERICAN PEOPLE RULE?

Leading newspapers of the State and Nation have praised the courage, honesty and good judgment displayed by Congressman Currie in his faithful and fearless representation of the general public.

FARMERS

Forrest Lord in the Michigan Business Farmer, says: "It is my judgment that Congressman Currie's record and capabilities are so far superior to those of his opponent that there can be no comparison. I know he did everything within his power to further the bean tariff bill. I can see no reason why the farmers of your district should wish to make any change in their Congressman this year."

Grant Slocum in the Gleaner, says: "Congressman Currie has always stood ready to assist the farmers in any matter they desired to have presented to Congress, and has given his valuable assistance in many matters of special interest to agriculture. This acknowledgment is given without request or suggestion for Mr. Currie, and is due him for the interest he has shown in the common cause."

WOMEN VOTERS

Congressman Currie's influence and vote made possible the passage of the equal suffrage amendment. Congressman Currie vigorously represents the high ideals for which women stand. He forced the Volstead Act over the President's veto and drove the Saloons out of the Nation.

SOLDIERS

Congressman Currie supported every measure in the interest of soldiers and sailors. His prompt personal attention to their matters is a subject of favorable comment in every community. Congressman Fordney, father of the soldiers' bonus bill which passed the House, says:

"Mr. Currie worked night and day helping me get that bill through the House. We hope to secure early and favorable action in the Senate. The soldier boys are entitled to know that they have no better friend in Congress than Mr. Currie."

Congressman Currie has championed every measure in the interest of the wage earner, yet Gompers and other radical strike leaders demand his defeat because, in the interests of the public—and that means you—

He opposed the coal strike and a six hour day;

He opposed the Plumb plan which would give railroad employees power to fix their own wages and hours of labor and make the public pay the bill;

Regardless of political cost, Congressman Currie refuses to surrender the public welfare into the hands of any organization;

Strikes and idleness during the last 12 months increased the cost of production $1,000,000,000 and the consuming public pays for it.

What would happen if the farmers and the rest of us strike?

Gompers demands an organized labor government and rule by and for trade unions.

CURRIE STANDS FOR RULE BY AND FOR ALL THE PEOPLE.—HE SHOULD BE ENCOURAGED BY THE GREATEST VOTE EVER GIVEN A CONGRESSMAN.

FARMERS ENDORSE McRAE'S CANDIDACY.

Representatives of farmer organizations from Clare, Gladwin, Ogemaw and Roscommon counties met at West Branch last week for the express purpose of considering the various candidates for State Senator from this district, with reference as to which one the farmers of the district ought to support.

The records of the several candidates were gone into thoroughly and a resolution passed endorsing Senator Duncan McRae for a third term.

The farmers of that section of the district have been active in looking up the candidates for both the Senate and the House and their action in endorsing the Alcona county candidate will undoubtedly have a wide-spread influence in the farming sections throughout the district.

Naturally, McRae's friends are pleased over this endorsement, but those who have followed him closely during his two terms in the Senate are not surprised that the farmers, or any other body that really wants honest, capable and conscientious attention paid to the public business have endorsed his candidacy.

It speaks well for Senator McRae that after his record has been searched and combed by representatives of such a prominent farm publication as the Michigan Business Farmer, he should be chosen from among the five candidates for the office as the one to receive the farmers' support.—Alcona Co. Review. Adv.

JAIL FOR PROFITEERS.

Woodruff Would deal in Earnest With Congress.

I believe the foundation of our wealth is the farm. That I acted upon this belief when in Congress is evidenced by the fact that today the federal government is paying more than 40% of the cost of construction of 40 miles of gravel road in Crawford County. The federal law under which you receive this money is in part the bill I introduced in Congress when I represented you there. I also voted for every measure of interest to the farming communities of the nation.

I stand for and will introduce in Congress a bill creating a real federal primary law, one by which it will enable the people to nominate direct the candidates for president and vice-president, just as we nominate our Governor.

I stand for the Pure Fabric bill. I am not now, have never been and never will be under obligations to any special interest or any great corporation whatsoever but shall keep myself free at all times to serve the best interests of all people.

I stand for the law that will jail profiteers, not fine them. A few jail sentences will reduce the cost of the things you have to buy.

There have been 33,000 millionaires made in the United States in the last three years. Are we to have as many more in the next three years (we pay the bills, you know), or shall we put a few of these profiteers in jail and in that way curb their greed?

The income tax records in Washington show that some of the great woolen manufacturers in the east made as high as 9000% profit off the wool the farmers sold during the war. The farmer was told by the government that he must sell this wool at a certain price. Why wasn't the other fellow told how much he could make?

More than 200 million woolen uniforms and 500 million woolen blankets have been manufactured and worn out in the past five years. All this wool has been taken out of the regular channels of trade. There never has been such a shortage of wool in the world, and yet the farmer is offered only about 16 cents a pound for his wool. What is the matter anyway? Isn't the big manufacturer satisfied with his 9000% profit?

Wheat has gone down in price about 50 cents a bushel recently. It is because the farmer will soon have some of it to sell?

At least one shipload of white beans reaches our west coast each week from Manchuria and Japan. The farmer there has to pay only 28 cents a day for his labor. The American farmer has to pay $5.00. Why hasn't Congress put a tariff on these beans?

All during the war the only business to have its profits limited was that of the farmer. If any coal mine owner or manufacturer has had his profits limited, it is not on record.

If the gambler in the necessities of life, the munition, the chemical and other manufacturers and the coal mine operator, had been limited in his profits as was the farmer, we wouldn't have made 33,000 millionaires in the last three years, would we?

Why shouldn't the farmer receive the same treatment and have the same opportunity as the other fellow?

Have the interests of this great agricultural district been properly looked after in Washington for the past four years?

Think it over, you people of Crawford County.

Investigate my record as your Congressman and if you find I represented you in the way you want to be represented, vote to give me the Republican nomination for representative in Congress in the Primaries August 31, 1920.
